TAX ADVISORY

A tax advisor is a financial expert with advanced training and knowledge of tax accounting and tax law. The services of a tax advisor are usually retained in order to minimize tax payable while remaining compliant with the law in complicated financial situations. Tax advisors can include Certified Public Accounts (CPAs), tax attorneys, enrolled agents, and some financial advisors.

KEY TAKEAWAYS:

A tax advisor is a financial professional who provides advice on strategies to minimize taxes owed while staying within the scope of the law and regulation.

Tax advisors may be trained as accountants, lawyers, or financial advisors, or may work as a team consisting of two or more types of professional.

Regardless of training, tax advisors are well-versed and up-to-date in matters of tax law and both IRS and state tax guidelines.

LOAN & FUNDING

The Funding Process

The process of funding a loan differs from state to state, but it typically doesn't take place until all the loan documents have been signed and all the funding conditions have been satisfied. A homebuyer often signs loan documents a few days before the actual closing, but this can vary by state. Closing can sometimes take place the same day a buyer signs the loan documents in some areas of the country.

Expect the lender to do one final check of your credit and employment status at the very end of the process but before any money changes hands. A buyer might think her loan is a sure thing so she runs out and buys a house full of furniture—on credit—in the days before funding. This move can be disastrous if you had a borderline credit score to start.
